Doug Elmore is Music Director of the LYO and conducts the Symphony Orchestra. He brings to the podium over thirty-five years of musical leadership. He currently serves as Orchestra Director of the Floyd Central High School Orchestra and the Highland Hills Middle School Orchestras, instructing 5 orchestras and over 350 students daily. Mr. Elmore recently served as Music Director of the Floyd County Youth Symphony for 24 years. Mr. Elmore has numerous recognitions including Indiana's "Music Educator of the Year", Floyd Central High School's "Teacher of the Year" and Indiana's High School Orchestra "Teacher of the Year." He has been awarded an Eli Lilly Endowment "Teacher Creativity Fellowship" and has been recognized with a WHAS TV ExCel Award for "Excellence in the Classroom and Educational Leader."

Matthew Vanover is the Executive Director of the LYO. He has devoted his life and career to service in the non-profit music and education sector. Matthew began his career Matthew leading several church music programs oriented toward community engagement, growth and support for community music educators. He came to LYO after leading more than forty artistic and administrative staff members at the Immanuel School of Music in the Northern Kentucky/Greater Cincinnati region. Immanuel School of Music is a full-featured private music school providing private instruction and a graded string orchestra program to more than 700 students. Matthew moved toward the non-profit music education space in a desire to provide today's children many of the same outlets that were so beneficial to him as a child.

Ian Elmore conducts the Repertory Orchestra. He has conducted the University of Louisville, Ball State Symphony Orchestra, Pierre Monteux Festival Orchestra, and the Muncie Symphony Orchestra. He has appeared as a guest clinician with multiple young orchestras as well as the Floyd Central High School Orchestra and the Youth Symphony Orchestra of East Central Indiana. Additionally, Mr. Elmore founded his own orchestra, the Alunos Chamber Orchestra, and started the Mozart in the Knobs music festival.

Chris Lerner conducts the Concert Orchestra. Over the past eighteen years, Mr. Lerner has filled many roles for the Louisville Youth Orchestra: Director of the Presto! And Sonatina Strings Program, Conductor of the Serenade Orchestra, the Concert Orchestra and the Camerata Orchestra. Currently, Mr. Lerner is the Director of Strings for the middle and upper school string programs at Louisville Collegiate School. In 2013, Mr. Lerner received the school's Katherine McCracken Davis Distinguished Teaching Chair.

Robert Dixon conducts the Serenade Orchestra. He began his teaching career directing the orchestras at Western Middle, The School for the Arts, where the program grew from nine students to fifty in the first three years. Since 2016, Dixon has directed the orchestras at Louisville Male High School and has continued to foster the school's tradition of excellence. Mr. Dixon was also a member of the Louisville Youth Orchestra for nine years.

Chris Schmidt conducts the Horizons Brass Ensemble. He also is the instructor of low brass at Indiana University Southeast and has been a low brass instructor in the since 2008. Mr. Schmidt also operates a studio with sixty private students and creates marching band drill designs and music arrangements for several high school and college band programs. Schmidt also performs with Chamber Winds Louisville, the Derby City Brass Band and the Indiana University Southeast Band and Orchestra.

Brandon Bell conducts the Horizons Wind Ensemble. He is an active educator in the metro Louisville area, maintaining a private studio of students ranging in age from 5 to adulthood. He is also the saxophone instructor at high schools in the region. He has played in orchestras, wind ensembles, chamber groups, musical theatre, big bands, jazz combos, gospel groups, and rock bands with artists/ensembles including Little Anthony and the Imperials, Michael Bolton, the Louisville Orchestra, Derby Dinner Playhouse, and the Georgia Symphony Orchestra.

Mark L. Tate conducts the Percussion Ensemble. He began performing as a percussionist with the Louisville Orchestra in 1983 and has also performed as percussionist with the Lexington Philharmonic Orchestra and the Broadway Series. He currently serves as percussionist with the Louisville Chorus, the Louisville Concert Band and the Louisville Civic Orchestra. Mark is the percussion instructor at Indiana University Southeast and maintains a full-service studio in his home, specializing in concert percussion instruction for students in area band programs.
